Dear Ms. Kelli Wood:

Enclosed is my essay "My First, Hopefully My Last, My Everything." In my essay, I tried to share a story about the day I bought my very first iPod and the significance behind my iPod.

Overall, I felt like I wrote a good essay. I like to think I told a good story of the day I purchased my iPod and my driving factor. I also felt like I was very passionate when it came to being descriptive. The best example would be how I conveyed just how angelic Bose head phones really are: "The very first pair I tried on felt like if heaven made two pillows and placed it on earth; Bose found these pillows and built speakers into them; then the pillows with built in speakers somehow managed to find a way onto my ears." By far it is one of my best and most memorable descriptions ever.

If I had to say I had any major concerns about this paper it would be feeling the need to write more about the significance of my iPod and what it truly means to me. I also do not feel like I grasp all the punctuation rules like when to correctly use the hyphen or the dash. I would greatly enjoy more examples of the hyphen and also the dash only to better enhance my writing ability.

I am a little nervous yet so excited to see the feedback that I receive on this paper. I put a lot of thought into creating this fine piece of writing. If you have questions, please contact me at youremail@whatever.com. I look forward to meeting with you to further discuss the development of my writing.

Sincerely,

Timothy Johns
